SOCAN licensing

All dance teachers who use non-public domain music for their classes are required to have a SOCAN (www.socan.ca) license. In 2002, Dance Nova Scotia negotiated a deal with SOCAN whereby individual members could receive their license through Dance Nova Scotia at the lowest cost charged by SOCAN, no matter how many dance classes they teach.

As of January 1, 2019 the rate is $ 86.00

OUR CURRENT INITIATIVES...

Dance for Health: A campaign to promote dance as a contributor to our health and wellness.

National Dance Week and International Dance Day: In 1982, UNESCO designated April 29th as International Dance Day. April 22-29 is National Dance Week in Canada. Dance Nova Scotia promotes these events to advocate for the value of dance in our public schools and as an activity throughout the province.

Dare to Dance: A challenge to schools across the province to dance for 20 minutes sometime during National Dance Week. This program sees thousands of school children dancing each year.

Taking Steps to Fly—our young choreographers' competition and showcase, open to dancers across the province in all forms of dance.

BreakSpace: Weekly free instruction and practice in Breakdancing. There is one session at DANSpace and one at the Halifax Central Library. Open to all ages and abilities.

NEW. Tango to Balance: Weekly free of charge drop-in classes for ambulatory seniors. Classes use tango to address body-awareness and to improve physical and mental presence while developing posture and gait to improve balance. Connecting seniors through dance, forms stronger bonds than a typical exercise class. Presented in partnership with Halifax Public Libraries, to be run at two branches in the Halifax Regional Municipality, starting in Fall 2019
